Chennai: Over 100 hospitals in four major Indian cities in India – Chennai, Bangalore, Hyderabad, and Delhi – have partnered with QurHealth, a Chennai- based personalised healthcare concierge startup, to 'redefine' personalised healthcare in India.

According to a statement, the partnership has happened in just nine months since the startup's inception. It company aims to become a safe and trusted choice for patients and their families for receiving personalised care, online and in-person.

Ravi Kunduru, founder and CEO of QurHealth, said: "We are humbled to serve patients in all age groups and enabling them with safe, secure, and compliant access to their personalised caregivers, doctors, and hospitals. We hope to serve 100 million patients as a secure and trustworthy care concierge firm with a network of one million providers and healthcare professionals over the next five years globally."
